A WORTHY CANDIDATE.

The loyal voters of the Commonwealth ask no higher tribute to the worth and character of Judge Williams than the following neat compliment paid him by the only daily Democratic paper of Western Pennsylvania the day following his nomination. It said:

"The nomination of the Hon. Henry W. Williams as a candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court is a good one. He was the best man named before the Republican Convention, and possesses legal and moral qualifications for the responsible position to which he has been nominated. Both parties have now presented their candidates. An important duty has been faithfully discharged by the respective conventions. The campaign may now be conducted without personal aspersions, and decided upon the principles of the two great parties. This is as it should be. It is an auspicious sign of the times, and if the county conventions are equally fortunate in the selection of legislative candidates, there will be a stop put to the deplorable corruption at the seat of government under a new reign of honest men and conscientious legislators.—Pittsburgh Post, June 28th, 1867.

The Post, in referring to the above, on the 29th of August, was pleased to say

"We have nothing to take back or modify. Of Judge Williams' private or legal reputation we have nothing but words of praise, and however it may suit some pugnacious and heady politicians, we cannot bring ourselves to view personal assaults as either wise or politic."

THE WORKINGMEN'S CONVENTION.

It was amusing to look on the men gathered at the Workingmen's Convention, yesterday, and see how completely it had fallen into democratic hands. The lobbies were thronged with democratic politicians; a large proportion of the delegates were democrats; and nearly all those who took an interest in the proceedings were men of that school. A man with half an eye could see that the only men who expected any benefit from the Convention were the democratic leaders. Poor fellows! They have been so long standing out in the cold, and have been waiting so long for something to turn up, that they gladly welcome the slightest movement that encourages the shadow of a hope in their breasts. We trust that the few Republicans in this third party movement will soon see that the sole object of these democratic schemes is to get as many Republicans as possible to throw away their votes on a third-party ticket, whilst they themselves vote the democratic ticket.

THE Second Grand Fair of the Mechanics and Agricultural Associations of Louisiana, will commence at New Orleans, on the 19th of next November. Our manufacturers should not lose sight of the great advantages which will accrue to them through being represented on the occasion by a proper display of their products. The Fair will draw thousands of visitors from all sections of the South, and it is of the utmost importance that our city be represented in the grand exhibition. The trade of the Southern States is fast drifting into old channels, and if a little energy is displayed in a proper way by our manufacturers, Pittsburgh may again receive the large patronage she enjoyed prior to the rebellion. No better method of introducing our city to the attention of Southern customers can be suggested than a liberal representation of our manufactures at the forthcoming Fair, and we earnestly hope that our business men will not be slow to act on the suggestion.

A FEW WEEKS MORE and election day will be with us, and as the time approaches more animation will be thrown into the campaign by the contesting parties. Republicans have a great responsibility resting upon them. They must see to it that every district is canvassed, and that not a voter will be absent from the polls. There is nothing to fear if a full Republican vote can be brought out, and it behooves all members of the party to bestir themselves to that end. Let the work of canvassing commence to-day. Each Republican may constitute himself a committee of one to awaken his neighbors to the danger of apathy and the necessity of being out to exercise their duties, as citizens, on election day. The western section of the State promised a large majority for Judge Williams, and that pledge can easily be redeemed if prompt and vigorous measures are immediately taken to bring out every voter who will cast his ballot with the Republican party.

THE Democrats are not without hope of securing an election of some of their candidates in Allegheny county. The Post has been quite anxious that a Labor Reform ticket should be adopted and that the Temperance element should put forth a set of candidates. It safely calculates that the Democrats will vote square for their own ticket and that third and fourth parties might possibly succeed in breaking the solid ranks of the Republicans sufficiently to admit of the disloyal minority candidates passing into office. Let the word go along the line that a trick of this character is intended and out of the sagacity and wisdom of the Republicans the enemy will be baffled and Allegheny county saved from the disgrace of electing Democrats to office.

NOT TRUE.—One of the speakers in the Workingmen's Convention, yesterday, asserted that Mr. ERRETT, as an employer, had defrauded the workingmen in his employ, by refusing to pay them the wages fixed by the Printers' Union! The speaker possibly believed this, but it is not true. During all of Mr. ERRETT's connection with the GAZETTE as one of its owners, the printers employed upon it were paid full Union prices, (as they are now); and the job printing office in which he is now an owner is well known as a "Union" office, is managed exclusively by printers belonging to the Printers' Union, and pays full Union prices. So much for that falsehood.

LET no Republicans forget the Grand Mass Meeting which will be held to-night at the Monongahela House. Eloquent and able speakers will be in attendance to address those present on the important political questions of the hour, and it is to be hoped that they will be greeted by so large an audience as will strike terror into the hearts of both wings of the opposition party.

—The following is the reason why shooting stars didn't appear when expected: "When the mologisistic temperature of the horizon is such as to cloricise the imperient identation of the hemisphere analogy, the cohesion of the borax curbistus becomes surcharged with infinitesimals, which are thereby virtually deprived of their fissurial disquisitions. This effected, a rapid change is produced in the thoramouber of the gympasticustus polerium, which causes a convacular in the hexagonal antipathes of the terrustrium aqua of ceremoucliar light, which can only be seen when it is visible." That's so.

THE DONCASTER RACES—GREAT DAY.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—Evening.—This was the great day of the Doncaster races. The attendance was immense, and the interest in the races was almost unprecedented.

The municipal stakes, valued at £500, were won by Calytto; the Corporation plate, valued at £305, by H. I., and the Bradgate Park stake by Leon.

The St. Ledger was the occasion of intense excitement. The great value of the stakes, £5,234, and the fact that the best horses of the year were entered for the race, made the St. Ledger of 1867 at least equal to any of its predecessors. The race was a splendid one, and was won by Achievement. Hermit, who won the Derby, was second, and Julius third.

TELEGRAPH SUMMARY.

—Another batch of correspondence concerning the Alabama claims has been published. Lord Stanley, in his dispatch dated May 24th, which was handed to Mr. Seward by Sir Frederick Bruce, while the two were fishing at Auburn during the summer, consents to arbitration, provided two distinct tribunals be established: one to decide the responsibility incurred by the British Government in depredations committed by the rebel privateers, and the other to adjudicate general claims on both sides. To this Mr. Seward, in a dispatch dated August 12th, objects as unnecessary, claiming that if there should be two tribunals they should be clothed with the same powers.

Republican State Convention—Speech of Henry Wilson—State Officers Renominated—The Temperance Question.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WORCESTER, Mass., September 11.—The Republican State Convention assembled to-day. Henry Wilson was elected President and made a brief speech, denouncing Johnson, and speaking eloquently of Stanton, Sheridan, Sickles and others who have been subjected to Executive vengeance or interference.

Gov. Bullock was then renominated, with the balance of the present State officers.

Considerable discussion took place on the liquor question, when a report was adopted that it was inexpedient to take action either way on the Temperance law question.

A Committee on Resolutions reported a series which were adopted. One declares that prohibition never having been made a part of the policy of the Republican party, it should not be taken up and considered at this time.

Another condemns the President's course, and pledged support to Congress, even to the extent of his removal from office.

One of the features of the exhibition of fruit is some pears from a tree in Danvers, Massachusetts, which was planted by John Endicott, the first Governor of the Colony of Massachusetts Bay. The tree is supposed to have been planted a short time subsequently to the arrival of Gov. Endicott in 1628.

THE O'NEILL-O'NEILL LIBEL.

Statement of the Case—Array of Counsel—The Indictment—The Evidence—No Argument for the Defense—Jury Out.

Shortly after eleven o'clock, on Wednesday, the case of the Commonwealth vs. Daniel O'Neill, of the Dispatch, was taken up in the Court of Quarter Sessions, before Judge Stowe. The announcement that this noted case would be taken up attracted to the Court room a large number of spectators, among whom were many representatives of the press of this city.

A brief resume of the details of the case may be interesting. In April last, it will be remembered, James B. O'Neill, a contractor, of the Second ward of this city filed in the Court of Common Pleas a petition for a divorce from his wife, on the ground of adultery with Daniel O'Neill—brother-in-law of the petitioner, by a marriage in Ireland with his sister. A day or two before the commencement of the suit for divorce, Daniel O'Neill was married to a young lady of Allegheny city, and on the day the petition was filed was absent from the city on a wedding tour. The application for divorce was published, with the current news of the day, in the various city papers, and this publicity induced Daniel O'Neill, then in New York city, to send home a lengthy statement or affidavit, for publication in the Dispatch. It contained a denial of the charge against him of having had criminal intercourse with the wife of J. B. O'Neill, his brother-in-law, and purported to give an account of the relations which had existed between him and J. B. O'Neill and wife. The statement, which is claimed to be utterly false and libellous, was sworn to before a Notary Public. Immediately after its publication J. B. O'Neill instituted a criminal prosecution against the writer for libel, and the Grand Jury, at the June term, returned a true bill. The case was put over until the present term, and its disposal will be the source of great relief to the parties interested.

ARRAY OF COUNSEL.

The following counsel were engaged in the case: For the prosecution, Marshall Swartzwelder, Robt. M. Gibson (of Washington county) and W. D. Moore, Esqs.; for the defense, R. Biddle Roberts, A. M. Brown, John M. Kirkpatrick and W. C. Moreland, Esqs.

CASE OPENED—THE INDICTMENT.

A jury was obtained after considerable challenging, and at about twelve o'clock Mr. Moore opened the case to the jury. He first read the indictment, of which the following is an abstract:

That before the printing and publishing of the defamatory and malicious libel hereafter mentioned, to wit: April 18th, 1867, James B. O'Neill had made under oath and filed his libel and complaint for divorce from his wife, Mary Ann O'Neill, in the Court of Common Pleas, wherein, among other things, the said J. B. O'Neill charged and complained that his said wife, Mary Ann O'Neill had committed the crime of adultery with one Daniel O'Neill, on certain days and times therein specified and set forth. The Grand Jury further present that Daniel O'Neill, printer, on the 24th of April, 1867, well knowing the premises, but devising and intending to traduce and defame the said James B. O'Neill, and to injure and prejudice him in the minds of the good people of the Commonwealth, and to cause it to be believed that the said James B. O'Neill had been guilty of wilful and corrupt perjury in the matter of his said libel and complaint for divorce from his wife, and thereby to prevent the due administration of justice and to deprive the said James B. O'Neill of the benefit of an impartial investigation of and concerning the truth of the charge of adultery against his wife, did wilfully and maliciously print and publish, and did cause and procure to be printed and published a certain scandalous, malicious, and defamatory libel of and concerning the said James B. O'Neill, and of and concerning the said charge of adultery, which said scandalous and malicious libel was and is contained, among other things, the false, scandalous, defamatory and libellous words and matter following, of the said James B. O'Neill, and of the charge of adultery: "As I (meaning thereby the said Daniel O'Neill, printer,) am probably the person referred to (thereby meaning and intending to report the libel and application for divorce so as aforesaid made by the said James B. O'Neill) I take the earliest opportunity to declare that there is not even the shadow of foundation for his complaint, so far as I am concerned, and to pronounce his statement (thereby meaning and intending the statement and charge of adultery by the said James B. O'Neill, alleged under oath against his said wife, Mary Ann O'Neill, in his said libel and application for divorce) a falsehood so malignant, atrocious and improbable in its character, that no one save a lunatic, or a scoundrel, double dyed in infamy, could have the temerity to utter it," (thereby meaning and intending that he, the said James B. O'Neill, had been guilty of wilful and corrupt perjury in his said complaint and libel for divorce as aforesaid.) And in another part thereof, to the tenor following, that is to say, "He, (meaning the said James B. O'Neill) knew and must know that I always had an aversion to her, (thereby meaning and intending the said Mary Ann O'Neill, wife of the said James B. O'Neill) for I made no concealment of it, and what it can be short of the most fiendish malice or complete aberration of mind that prompts him (thereby meaning the said James B. O'Neill) to make this charge against me (thereby meaning the charge of adultery by the said James B. O'Neill against his said wife, in his libel and complaint in divorce as aforesaid) now, is something I cannot understand." And in another part thereof, to the tenor following, that is to say, "I will here mention another fact to show that the wretch (thereby meaning and intending the said James B. O'Neill) cannot and does not believe the story to which he subscribes, (thereby meaning and intending the libel and application for divorce, so as aforesaid made under oath by him the said James B. O'Neill.) And in another part thereof, to the tenor following, that is to say: "When the plot of which the application referred to by the Leader (thereby meaning and intending the libel and application for divorce of the said James B. O'Neill made as aforesaid) is this the offspring, was hatched, I cannot say, but from some facts communicated to me by a friend, I should infer that it has been for some time under consideration, and as carefully prepared as the flimsy nature of the material of which it is built will permit." To the great damage of him the said James B. O'Neill, contrary to the form of the act of the General Assembly in such case made and provided, and against the peace and dignity of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Attached to the information in the case is the alleged libellous article, as published in the Dispatch, headed, "The O'Neill Divorce Case—Sworn Statement by D. O'Neill—Card to the Public," dated "St. Nicholas Hotel, New York, April 22, 1867," signed "D. O'Neill," and "sworn to before me this 22d day of April, A. D., 1867. W. H. Post, Notary Public, New York City and county."

Mr. Moore next read the section of the Penal Code under which the indictment was framed, as follows:

"Sec. 24. If any person shall write, print, publish, or exhibit any malicious or defamatory libel, tending either to blacken the memory of one who is dead, or the reputation of one who is alive, and thereby exposing him to public hatred, contempt or ridicule, shall be guilty of misdemeanor, and on conviction, be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or undergo an imprisonment not exceeding twelve months, or both, or either, at the discretion of the Court."

Mr. Moore said in conclusion that the jury were called upon to determine, first, whether there was a publication, as alleged, and second, if there was a publication, whether it was libellous. The truth or falsity of the alleged libellous matter could not be taken into consideration under the law.

THE EVIDENCE.

H. A. Hirst, the first witness called, testified that on April 24th he purchased a copy of the Dispatch, at the Dispatch office, from a boy. Paper produced containing the "sworn statement by D. O'Neill." The witness stated on cross-examination that he purchased the paper at the request of J. B. O'Neill, the prosecutor.

A. W. Kook, was called.

Mr. Roberts, for the defense, suggested that the calling of witnesses to prove publication was unnecessary. They would admit the publication.

Mr. Swartzwelder—Do you admit that Daniel O'Neill wrote the article?

Mr. Roberts, (after consultation)—Of course, we admit that.

Mr. Swartzwelder then proposed to offer the newspaper in evidence, with such portions of the article referred to as were charged in the indictment as libellous.

Mr. Roberts objected. The prosecution had seen fit to pick out of a long article such portions as they claimed to be libellous, instead of setting forth the whole article correctly as they should have done.

Judge Stowe said that if the objection urged was sustained, alleged libellous matter in a single page of a volume could not be made the subject of indictment unless the whole volume was set out. The objection was overruled and the paper admitted for the purpose stated.

Mr. Swartzwelder proceeded to mark the alleged libellous portions of the article, but before reading them he offered in evidence the petition or libel filed by James B. O'Neill, the prosecutor, in the Common Pleas, for a divorce from his wife.

Mr. Roberts objected. Although the prosecution had been allowed to offer garbled extracts from the article, before reading them they proposed to offer a paper not relevant to the case.

The objection was overruled, and the paper admitted, but simply to show the fact that an application for divorce was pending between the prosecutor and his wife. It was admitted as a Court record.

Mr. Swartzwelder then read from the article in the Dispatch the portions set forth in the indictment.

Joseph B. Robinson, being called, testified, after reading the portions referred to, that he understood them to refer to J. B. O'Neill; this understanding arose from a perusal of the whole article.

Will M. Hartzell was sworn, and after reading marked portions of the article in the Dispatch, said he understood them to refer to J. B. O'Neill, but formed this impression from having previously read the whole article.

The Commonwealth here rested their case.

THE DEFENSE.

Mr. Brown asked that the evidence of the witnesses, Messrs. Robinson and Hartzell, be excluded, for the reason that they had testified to their understanding from the whole article, which had not been offered and was not in the case.

This request, after brief argument, was granted.

PROSECUTION REOPENED.

The prosecution then asked that the case for the prosecution be re-opened in order to allow the testimony excluded to be presented in another way. This was granted.

Mr. Swartzwelder proposed to offer the newspaper in evidence for the purpose of showing that in the portions of the article set forth in the indictment reference was intended to J. B. O'Neill.

The defense objected, but after some argument the Court admitted the whole arti[illegible]pose intended, the defense to cle for the pu[illegible]advantage might be allowed whatever [illegible]ticle in evidence taken of the offering of the a[illegible]dence. Under this ruling the testimo[illegible] excluded was now admitted.

Mr. Swartzwelder then read the statement of the defendant, as published in the Dispatch, to the jury, after which the prosecution finally rested their case.

NO DEFENSE.

After a rather lengthened consultation, Mr. Brown stated they had a defense, and proposed to the opposing counsel, in good faith, to prove the truth of the allegations alleged to be libellous.

Mr. Swartzwelder said he had no reply to make to such a proposition.

Judge Stowe said such a proposition had been made in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Kennedy, and rejected. Although the counsel might consent, and the attempt be made to prove the truth of the alleged libel, still the Court, in the performance of its duty, would be compelled to instruct the jury to disregard such defense.

Counsel for the defense did not desire to make any argument to the jury, and were willing to submit the case under the charge of the Court.

REMARKS FOR THE PROSECUTION.

Mr. Swartzwelder made a brief speech to the jury, detailing connectedly the facts pertaining to the case. J. B. O'Neill, the prosecutor, had filed a petition for a divorce from his wife, setting forth the ground to be adultery with the defendant, Daniel O'Neill. This he had an undoubted right to do; indeed it was his bounden duty so to do, if he believed the facts. By doing this he had made no assault on the defendant. But the newspapers had published the fact of the filing of the petition, the defendant at the time being in New York, where he stated he first learned of the charge against him; but in regard to the truth of this, Mr. S. said he would leave it to the defendant himself to say now. Yet he had so sworn. Defendant went on further to say, that if the prosecutor's wife, in his (the defendant's) presence and also that of the prosecutor's counsel, would acknowledge the truth of the statement in the petition for divorce, he would acknowledge himself the veriest scoundrel alive, which Mr. S. believed him to be. Mr. S. said he would leave to the opposing counsel to say whether the defendant had availed himself of the opportunity offered to hear the statement of defendant's wife in the presence of counsel.

[Mr. Brown interrupted the speaker, complaining to the Court that he was referring to matters on personal knowledge, and which were not in the case.]

Mr. S. said that of the libellous nature of the article written by the defendant, there could be no question; that it was malicious was equally apparent—it was as full of gangrene as the author's body. True or false, the article was libellous. It was of a nature that tended to a rupture of the peace, for had the defendant fallen into other hands than those of the prosecutor, redress might have been taken out of his hide, or by the taking of his life, for like provocation.

CHARGE OF THE COURT.

Judge Stowe charged the jury briefly and impartially. His Honor said, although without any precedent to guide him, that a party had a right to defend himself concerning a proceeding in Court. There could be no question that certain publications of proceedings were likely to do injury, and where a party saw fit to defend himself, denying allegations, or justifying himself, he could not be held accountable, and such communications were to be considered as privileged; provided the party did not go beyond what might be regarded as necessary for his justification or defense, by unwarrantably accusing others, as, in that case, he was liable to indictment. In the present case, the jury, before they could convict, must believe that the defendant intended to accuse the prosecutor of perjury in relation to a proceeding in Court, viz: the application for a divorce from his wife.

The jury retired a little before three o'clock, and had not agreed at adjournment.

Pulmonary Consumption.

Properly speaking, and as it is generally understood, is a disease of the substance of the lungs, and may either be in a latent or developed state—latent when there are tubercles in the lungs which have not as yet taken suppurative action, when there is no, or very little, cough, and no spitting of matter or pus. In fact, matter will not be raised until the tubercle becomes inflamed, breaks, and then the process of suppuration goes on, and you have consumption in a developed state, or, in other words, true pulmonary consumption or consumption of the lungs. There may be disease of either the trachea, bronchia, larynx or pharynx, in which these organs throw off an excessive quantity of mucous pus or starch like substance, and it is to this form of the disease above named that the term consumption has been given. It has been called bronchial consumption, or bronchitis, when the bronchia alone is affected, and it likewise is named tracheal, or laryngeal consumption, when the trachea or larynx are affected. So much for the description. Now for the cure. Each and every one of these diseases are curable, when taken in the early stages—as curable as any other diseases, and as fatal as any other, when allowed to run for a long time, without a remedy; but I am not sure that they are more fatal than most other diseases, when those other diseases are allowed to take their course. I have cured most of these diseases hundreds of times, by my PECTORAL SYRUP, without any other remedy. Hundreds of living witnesses, in and around Pittsburgh, have given their testimony to the fact, and among them are some of the most respectable citizens, who it is not likely could be imposed upon. DR. KERSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP is not an "expectorant" merely. It is more. It is a healing, soothing, lung medicine; infallible in the early stages, and often curing in advanced stages of lung maladies. I have made it and used it in my practice for more than twenty years, and I have yet to discover a remedy superior to it, in the early stages of lung and bronchial disease. In advanced stages, like everything else, it sometimes fails. In weakened and broken-down states of the system, I do not trust to PECTORAL SYRUP, or any single remedy. I then try to meet the conditions present; and if there be vigor of constitution enough left, I have confidence to believe I will succeed in curing what is usually deemed an incurable disease. Sold at 140 Wood street. DR. KEYSER'S OFFICE FOR LUNG EXAMINATIONS, 120 PENN STREET.

The Spice of Life.

We have hitherto at some length directed the attention of our readers to the adulteration practiced by unscrupulous spice dealers and manufacturers. We made several honorable exceptions, and to-day will direct attention to the pure articles which are put up by the Hope Spice Mills of this city, which are now in successful operation under the ownership of Messrs. Rinehart and Stevens. The great object of the firm is to supply the trade with only pure spices, so that the high reputation they have made will remain untarnished. The mills are large, complete and extensive, and are located at Nos. 12 and 14 Fourth street. Upon entering the building, which has been fitted up expressly as a spice mill, your attention is at first attracted by the complete elevating apparatus, which it contains, by means of which corn, spice or other articles can be placed on the first floor, transported to any quarter of the building, and then, if required, replaced in the exact spot whence they were removed. There is, also, one of the most complete and effective corn shellers we have ever seen, and an apparatus for grinding corn and separating the bran. The quality of the corn meal from this establishment has been universally pronounced unsurpassed, as a patent fan separates every particle of chaff from the grain. The machinery of the institution is driven by a Foster Engine, of 18 inch cylinder and 33 inch stroke, giving most ample power. They have likewise three large coffee roasters, which have facilities for roasting seventy-five bags of coffee daily. The massive stone which grinds the corn will make one hundred bushels of first-class meal every day. The pepper, ginger, mustard and cinnamon mills, are each of large capacity and of a superior description. The packing machines will put up 1,000 packages of spice per hour, clean and neat. The firm have all kinds of spices, both whole and ground, put up in packages ranging from ¼ oz to 10 lbs., which the public may rely upon as being absolutely pure, no particle of poisonous matter being introduced into the spices by this house. We bespeak for the Hope Mills a large share of public patronage, and commend the proprietors to our readers as fair dealing and honorable business gentlemen.

Miss Charlotte Thompson.

The Opera House, which now boasts of a stock company equal to any of bygone seasons, is drawing full houses, and the entertainment offered is of a high order. Miss Charlotte Thompson, who is here, as well as everywhere else, a great favorite with the lovers of the drama, has met with full encouragement during her engagement, which is rapidly drawing to a close. She is the flower of the histrionic profession, and within herself are more charms than belong to any other actress on the American boards. Rare native talents, which have been fully developed by close study and training, a keen sense of delicacy, native innocence and modesty, and a charming way of carrying audiences in sympathy with the character she impersonates, are the gifts which lend such an attraction to Miss Thompson's name. Last evening she appeared to much advantage in "Little Barefoot," and to-night she will impersonate Noah O'Connor, in the neat and beautiful play of the "Irish Heiress." Let no lover of the legitimate drama fail to attend the Opera House the few remaining nights of Miss Charlotte Thompson's engagement.

The Rally To-Night.

A grand mass meeting of the Republicans will be held to-night at the Monongahela House square, on Smithfield street. Col. Russel Errett, Hon. Thomas M. Marshall, Hon. F. B. Penniman, Gen. F. H. Collier, H. C. Mackrell, Esq., and other able speakers will be in attendance to address the meeting. A brass band will discourse music at intervals, and the arrangements are such as to enable us to promise a good, old fashioned and enthusiastic gathering. Let every Republican attend, and with his presence help on the cause of Williams and Errett.

Sacred Concert.

A select corps of singers, under the direction of Professor W. A. Lawton, will give one of their highly popular concerts this evening, at the First Universalist Church, corner of Third and Grant streets, for the benefit of the school connected with that church. One of Esty's celebrated Cabinet Organs, together with a fine Schumaker Piano, have been ordered expressly for this occasion, and will be used for the first time to-morrow night.

CRIMINAL COURT.

The Goldrich Homicide—Verdict of The Jury—The Defendant Acquitted and Discharged.

The Court having assembled at nine o'clock Wednesday, Judge Stowe delivered his [illegible] charge in the Goldrich homicide case, reported yesterday. He first referred to what was requisite to establish guilt by circumstantial evidence, and next reviewed the evidence adduced in the case, particularly that in relation to the relative position of the prisoner and the deceased at the time of the firing of the fatal shot. His Honor said the facts were for the jury, and he would submit the case without expressing any opinion. The law of homicide, as applicable, was very clearly set forth. It was the duty of the jurors, said His Honor, not to acquit on light and unsubstantial grounds, but at the same time they would be justified in acquitting the defendant, if not fully satisfied of his guilt.

The jury retired at half-past nine o'clock, and returned about one, for the purpose of having the Court read to them the evidence of James Marshall, about which there was some difference of opinion.

The jury again retired, and at a few minutes before three o'clock returned with a verdict of "not guilty." The prisoner, V. G. Kellar, was then discharged by proclamation.

SELLING LIQUOR TO MINORS.

George Hoffman, of Mifflin township, was indicted for selling liquor to minors. It was testified that the defendant had a pic nic on or near his premises on the Fourth of July last, at which he furnished liquor (lager beer,) to George Carrick, Jas. Boyer, and John Shope, boys under eighteen years of age. The defense was that the liquor was sold without Hoffman's knowledge and against his consent and express commands, and that under the law, in order to make out the offense, it must be shown that the defendant had knowledge of what is charged, or wilfully furnished the liquor to the boys in disregard of the law. The jury found a verdict of guilty, and the defendant was sentenced to pay a fine of thirty dollars and the costs.

A Genuine Ghost Story.

The Monongahela Republican says: "Not very long ago, the young and beautiful wife of one of our citizens was called to her final account, leaving her husband disconsolate, sad, bereft. She was buried in the adjacent cemetery, and the husband returned to his desolate home—but not to forget the loved one. She was present with him by day in spirit and in his dreams at night. One peculiarity of his dreams, and one that haunted him, being repeated night after night, was this, that the spirit of his wife came to his bedside and told him that the undertaker had not removed from her face the square piece of muslin or napkin which had been used to cover her face after death, but had screwed down her coffin lid with it upon her; that she could not breathe in her grave, but was unrest on account of the napkin. He tried to drive the dream away, but it bided with him by night and troubled him by day. He sought the consolations of religion; his pastor prayed with him and assured him that it was wicked to indulge such morbid fancy. It was the subject of his own petition before the Throne of Grace, but still the spirit came and told anew the story of her suffocation. In despair he sought the undertaker, Mr. Dickey, who told him that the napkin had not been removed, but urged him to forget the circumstance, as it could not be any possible annoyance to inanimate clay. While the gentleman frankly acknowledged this, he could not avoid the apparition, and continual stress upon his mind began to tell upon his health. At length he determined to have the body disinterred and visited the undertaker for that purpose. Here he was met with the same advice, and persuasion, and convinced once more of his folly, the haunted man returned to his home. That night, more vivid than ever, more terribly real than before, she came to his bedside, and upbraided him for his want of affection, and would not leave him until he promised to remove the cause of all her suffering. The next night, with a friend, he repaired to the Sexton, who was prevailed upon to accompany them, and there, by the light of the cold, round moon, the body was lifted from its narrow bed, the coffin lid unscrewed, and the napkin removed from the face of the corpse. That night she came to his bedside once more, but for the last time. Thanking him for his kindness, she pressed her cold lips to his cheek, and came again no more. Reader, this is a true story; can you explain the mysteries of Dreams!

The Middleton Murder—The Mystery Still Unsolved.

The Beaver Argus says: In the early part of last week the Grand Jury, then in session in this place, found a true bill against Thomas Burch, William Wike, John Stump, Washington Gordon and James Parris, for the murder of Thomas Middleton, who was killed at the mouth of Brady's Run, in Beaver county, on the night of the 14th of November, 1866.

On last Tuesday afternoon they were brought before the Court for trial, and as it was decided to try the parties separately, James Parris only was placed in the box, and a jury impannelled to try his case. The prosecution was conducted by J. S. Rutan, the District Attorney, assisted by Messrs. Fetterman and Hice; and the defence was managed by Messrs. S. B. Wilson and E. B. Daugherty. On Wednesday morning the testimony in the case began to be taken and did not close until at noon on Friday. The investigation was a close one, and required a great deal of patience on the part of those conducting it. After the testimony was all taken, the case was submitted without argument. The Judge charged the jury in an address of about an hour's length, after which they retired to their room, and in about one hour and a half returned a verdict of "not guilty." The verdict, we believe, is generally approved by those who were familiar with the case, and who followed its "slow length along." Mr. Parris was then discharged and set at liberty. The other persons, to wit: Burke, Wike, Stump and Gordon, were also discharged on their own recognizance. Thus ends another chapter in the Middleton murder case, and the public is now in as deep darkness touching the murderers as before.

Attempted Assassination.

An attempt was made Tuesday evening about eleven o'clock, by some unknown person, to take the life of Mr. Miller, who resides on Grantham street, between Robinson and Lacock, Allegheny. Mr. M. was crossing the St. Clair street bridge at the time above mentioned, when he heard some one following him at a rapid pace. He stepped to one side to let the person pass, but instead of passing him, the stranger struck him, and continued striking at him until Mr. M. knocked him down, and ran away. He returned to the toll house at this end of the bridge and entered it. In a short time afterward the stranger came after him and placing one hand against the door, and the other, in which he held a pistol, on the shoulder of the watchman at the bridge, who was standing in the door, deliberately fired at Miller twice, the first shot passing through his hat, on the right side of his head, and the other taking effect in his left hand, the ball entering at the palm, and passing up into the forearm where it lodged. The would-be assassin was permitted to make his escape, notwithstanding he was pointed out to an officer, who was present a few minutes after the shooting, and before the stranger had left the ground. We did not learn who the officer was, but presume the watchman at the bridge could tell, if any demand to know. Mr. Miller is a river man and has a wife and several children.

Shocking Accident.

On Saturday last, says the Titusville Herald, a boy of about ten years, son of Rev. A. Holman, of Pleasantville, met with a terrible accident, which soon after resulted in his death. It appears he was standing near an oil well in process of drilling, and placing his hand upon the rope of the bull wheel, his fingers were drawn underneath. With the other hand he attempted to lift up the rope to release his fingers, but the hand was likewise caught, and before the workmen were alarmed and the engine could be reversed, the boy's neck and breast were drawn beneath the rope and over upon the wheel, crushing and strangling him in the most frightful manner. He was extricated as soon as possible, and received all possible care, but died on Sunday morning.

Resumption of Work.

The Steubenville Herald says: We are glad to learn that the rolling mill will soon fully resume work. When it is in full blast it gives permanent employment to about 450 laborers and mechanics of all classes, and disburses to them on each pay day an amount of money so large that its stoppage is sensibly felt throughout the city. For some time past the Mill Company has been actively engaged repairing their machinery, works and buildings, and in the meantime most of their hands were idle. —Yesterday, the repairs being sufficiently completed, work was resumed and a large part of the force put on again.

Stolen Goods Found.

A large quantity of goods, which were stolen from the store of C. A. Lucas, in Buena Vista, on the night of the 31st of March last, were found on the 28th ultimo, concealed under the coal scaffold of Mr. William Bell, of that place; and on the 29th another lot of the goods stolen from the same store, and some goods stolen from the tailor shop of Robert Grant, in Greenock, were found together near the coal pit lately worked by Robins & Jenkins. The goods were in good order and seemed well cared for.

The Meanest Men Alive.—We have frequently heard of mean men and mean actions, but the very essence of all meanness was the robbing of a one-armed soldier, who resides at Sharpsburgh, at the Railroad Depot, on Federal street, Allegheny, on Monday. The soldier had been to this city and drew his pension, amounting to $85, which he placed in his pocket book, and while waiting at the depot for the train, the pocket book and money were both taken. Joseph Williams, a resident of Green street, Third ward, Allegheny, was arrested on suspicion, but no evidence was adduced at the hearing to warrant his detention and Mayor Morrison discharged him.

Heavy Taxes.—The Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad pays to the State of Ohio a yearly aggregate of sixty thousand dollars in the way of State, county, township and corporation taxes. There are about two hundred miles of track in the State, and the assessment is at the rate of three mills on the dollar. The company makes its return to the State, and the counties predicate their respective assessments on that return, and so also do the townships and corporations.

William Taylor, a Revolutionary soldier, one hundred and seven years old, now lives with his son-in-law, John Dohart, in Spencer township, Allen county, Ohio.

Serious Accident to a Well Known Citizen.

On Saturday last Captain William Conway, a well-known resident of the city, met with an accident which it is feared may result fatally. He was on a visit to some relatives near Clarksville, Greene county, and while engaged in picking peaches fell from a high fence, injuring his spine to such an extent as to cause paralysis of the upper and lower extremities. The Captain is a large, heavy man, weighing upwards of two hundred and thirty-five pounds, and this fact, in connection with the distance of his fall, the fence being of more than ordinary height, will account in some measure for the serious nature of the injury sustained. He was brought to his home in the city, 208 Pennsylvania avenue, last evening, and Dr. Donnelly called to see him. His condition is considered very critical.

M., precisely, on the premises, will be sold one hundred and eleven various sized Building Lots, near the residences of Dr. Gazzam, Wm. H. Smith and Jno. Dunlap, Esqs., on the beautiful knoll overlooking Pennsylvania and Centre avenues, and within a few steps of the passenger cars on both those thoroughfares. See advertisement of Smithson, Palmer & Co.

Call in and see for yourselves.

Great Spanish Sheep Sale.—Mr. Robert Perrine, the well known sheep raiser, Patterson's Mills, Washington county, Pa., will offer at public sale at that place, on Tuesday, September, 17th, four hundred Spanish Sheep. The stock runs from spring lambs to four year olds. A choice selection of bucks will be offered at the same time in lots to suit purchasers. Let none of our agricultural readers forget the time and place of sale, as bargains may be anticipated.

Destructive Fire.—Last night, a few minutes before twelve o'clock, the extensive Glass Works of Adams & Co., in Birmingham, were destroyed by fire. The loss will prove quite heavy. We did not learn whether there was any insurance, or how the fire originated. Both the fire companies of Birmingham were on hands, as were also several steamers from this city and the Hope Hose Company, of Allegheny.

Attempted Suicide.—Between five and six o'clock last evening, a negro employed at Fleming's drug store, corner of the Diamond and Market streets, took a quantity of laudanum. It is not known where he got the drug, as he had been about some time before it was discovered that he had taken it. He was in a very critical condition late last night.

We sell Dry Goods both at wholesale and retail, and are, as a consequence, enabled to keep a larger and much better assorted stock, to sell cheaper, and give the goods in more accommodating quantities than exclusive jobbing houses. Retail merchants are invited to examine our stock.

The Loathsome Creatures Feasting in a Broken Skull.

Joseph Arrica, of Nashville, had his skull broken with a hammer in the hands of a negro, who attempted to rob him, about sixteen months ago. At that time the whole top of his skull had to be taken off, leaving his brains without any covering, except a hat, which he nearly always wore. Some two months ago he quarreled with his rival, an old black man, about a pretty mulatto girl. A night or two after, Arrica entered his rival's window with an open knife and attempted to cut his throat, but failed, and was subsequently arrested and committed to jail for trial.

He had long and beautiful black hair which he permitted to cover his brain, thus causing inflamation. The jailor had the locks cut off and his head shaved, as the attending physician had prescribed, but not without using considerable force. Arrica's head was frequently washed, which ceremony he invariably resisted with all the feeble strength that remained to him, and seemed perfectly indifferent to the filth which collected around the brain.

During the early part of last week a physician removed two bones which were pressing on the unfortunate man's brain, and, on examination, found maggots festering therein. The physician picked out the loathsome creatures, and applied camphor to the affected part, for the purpose of killing, if possible, those that might be left. Arrica has absolutely become a mere walking automaton. He appears to move without any purpose whatever. The doctor expressed the opinion that if he remained in jail he would die in ten days. The jailor represented the prisoner's condition to the judge who ordered his release.

A WELL ATTENDED meeting of Irish servant girls was held last Sunday in Troy, N. Y. Their object was to protest against the appeal made by the Fenian Congress in Cleveland for more funds to carry on the war against Great Britain to free Ireland. From the resolutions passed, we should say that they have learned wisdom from sad experience. The chambermaids resolved as follows:

First. That they had no interest in the capture of Canada, and could not see how it would benefit Ireland if it was captured.

Second. That they had given their earnings for years and nothing came of it but senseless military campaigns without prospective success.

Third. That the money already paid was criminally diverted from its purpose.

Fourth. That they would contribute no more until assured of success.

The above contains the gist of the resolutions. Considering the elements assembled, it is wonderful that everything passed off harmoniously. It is proposed at a future meeting to adopt an address in answer to the one to be sent out by the Fenian Congress now assembled in Cleveland.

A POEM called the Blue and the Gray, going the rounds of the rebel and Conservative press, attempts to place upon the same level, in the memory of Americans North and South, the dead traitors and the murdered Union soldiers. Forgiveness is all very well, but such stuff as this we cannot stand.

"Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting for the judgment day;—
Love and tears for the Blue.
Tears and love for the Gray."

It might as well be asked of the widowed wife to weep over the grave of her husband's assassins as to ask a Union soldier to have "Tears and love for the Gray." They are dead. Let them be forgotten, but do not insult the "Blue" with praises for the "Gray."

AMONG THE many experiments which bear upon the important problem of cholera, its materies morbi, its essential element of disease, are a series of investigations lately made in Melbourne, Australia, on the poison of the cobra de capello. The published account of these experiments show, how, when a person is bitten by that deadly snake, molecules of living germinal matter are thrown into the blood, speedily grow into cells, rapidly multiply, and in a few hours, at the expense, apparently, of the oxygen which the blood absorbs during inspiration, become millions in number. For it would appear that while the growth of the vegetable cell requires inorganic food and the liberation of oxygen, that of the animal cell needs organic food and the absorption of oxygen. Both food and oxygen are found in the blood which, thus deprived of its great element of combustion, soon ceases to fulfill its functions, and in the patient there rapidly ensues coldness, sleepiness, insensibility, slow breathing and death. Many of the effects of this direct animal poison are apparently allied to the effects of the choleraic virus, and perhaps the attempts to combat this fearfully rapid cellular multiplication in the one case may lead to some successful antidote in the other, which is more dreadful because more common.

[Thus hath passed from a cold, cheerless earth to the bright home of the Father in Heaven a spirit too pure for this life of sin and sorrow. Gentle, kind, loving and affectionate, innocent, guileless and good, she has passed away. As the soul fluttered for escape, and the cold seal of death was being affixed on her sweet brow, a tearful prayer breathing hope and resignation broke from her lips; it was commenced on earth and finished before the Throne of God, in the happiness of eternity, and myriads of cherubims and seraphims chanted the "Amen." Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven. MOO.]

PROSPECTS OF THE FRENCH METALLURGY.

A few reflections upon European metallurgy will not be considered out of place here in a country where this branch of industry is continually acquiring an increased development, and where, notwithstanding the exertions and ability of the people, it has not yet reached that bright perfection, which the Old World's riper and more developed experience has not failed to impress upon it.

Twenty years ago England had for herself the whole monopoly of the iron market, the French and German metallurgy, still in infancy, could not rival with her; she produced the best and the cheapest iron, exported large quantities of iron and steel on the continent and struggling against heavy duties, she would have exhausted and ruined any one who dared to raise any pretention to the iron manufactory.

But since that time things have changed. Germany, Italy, Spain, even Russia and above all France, have assumed a prominent peace. Free trade, which in 1856 menaced to overthrown continental competition, gave birth to a new era of fabricating, and France the least favored of all, rose from her long lethargy and commenced to rival with success, even England, by which she had so fearfully been threatened during a period of over fifty years.

France has not, like England, rich mines of ore, or any considerable coal field. She has to draw most everything from abroad; her coal comes from Belgium, her ore from Germany, Italy, Spain, and some from England. Her only advantage is in the skill of her iron-masters, and skillful they certainly are, since they meet such success with foreign competition. The Colburn's Engineer, alluding to the manufacture of Bessemer steel, and the new process of steel making introduced by Messrs. T. T. Verdie & Co., of Firmini, Loire, says: "Both the undertakings—and new undertakings they certainly are—have a merit of novelty since 1862, with which we have nothing to compare, for our advance in the last five years has been one rather of development and reproduction than of improvement and invention. The manufacture of Bessemer steel direct from the blast furnace has been the dream of many an ambitious maître de forge, and within the last year we have heard it called l'avenir de Bessemer (the future of Bessemer) by perhaps the greatest ironmaster of the present day."

The new system of Bessemer is well known through the country and has obtained a wonderful success at the last Exhibition in Paris. American iron masters have found it a great invention, and some have called it a revolution in steel making. But a few figures placed here will show more clearly what France, notwithstanding her unfavorable condition, has achieved within the last few years. We quote from the Bulletin of the Iron and Steel Association: "The quantity of pig iron imported into France and paying duties has declined by more than ten thousand tons in the first eight months of the year, as compared with the corresponding period of 1866. As regards iron, the same result is indicated, although to a smaller extent. The introduction of minerals has also fallen off by some eight per cent., as compared with the corresponding eight months of 1866. The production of pig iron in France has, on the contrary, increased thirty-three thousand tons and that of iron and plates thirty-four thousand tons during the first half of this year."

It may be concluded, then, from these figures that French metallurgy is a constant course of development, since it always produces more and requires less to meet the consumption of the country.

Meantime, a short sketch of one of the largest iron establishments of France will be read with some interest by those who follow with close attention the progress of this branch of industry. We mean the Creusot. This establishment is of immense proportions, making over one thousand tons of pig iron per annum from twenty furnaces, and converting the whole into machinery, merchant bars, plates, bars, etc. The annual consumption of coal is five hundred thousand tons. The works and mines operated by the company give employment to twelve thousand workmen, and furnish support to forty thousand souls.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

The author of the "Chronicles of the Schonberg-Cotta Family" obtained an enviable reputation by the publication of that work. Since its appearance, several volumes of her writings have been published. Her work entitled the "Daytons and the Davenants," an alternated story, in the form of a diary and narrative, of the religious movements and condition of Great Britain in the stormy times of the Roundheads and Cavaliers, increased her fame. And the publication of the "Diary of Kitty Trevelyan" and "Winfred Bertram," still further augmented her circle of readers. Her intimate and extensive knowledge of the history and literature of the times whereof she writes, enabled her to execute the work well. It is very generally conceded to her that none of modern days is superior in this special department of christian labor. In these works is displayed an extraordinary ability in the analysis of human nature, and the delineation of human character. Her works have been given to the public by her enterprising publisher, Mr. M. W. Dodd, Broadway, New York.

The Physiology of Man; designed to represent the existing state of Physiological Science as applied to the functions of the Human Body. By Austin Flint, Jr., M. D. New York: D. Appleton & Co. Pittsburgh: For sale by Davis, Clarke & Co.

This is the second volume in a series of four, intended to illustrate the Science of Physiology, and to embody all the results of investigation in that department up to the present time. The volumes are distinct in themselves, treating of a definite portion of the general subject, and in no way interlacing, yet, taken together, making up a complete system. The volume issued last year discoursed of the Blood, &c. The present one is devoted to the great functions of Digestion and Absorption.

General readers are aware that many points relating to Alimentation were complicated by a mass of conflicting observations and statements by the earlier physiologists and even by modern experimenters; that now there are serious differences of opinion with regard to some of the most important facts connected with this function, and that while physicians widely disagree in theory—they are yet farther apart in their own habits and the course they recommend to their patients. The present treatise endeavors to avoid somewhat of this confusion by treating these questions upon the basis of accumulated experimental facts, without regarding mere opinions, even of the highest authority, when based upon insufficient data.

With regard to absorption, very much has been developed within the last few years by accurate experimental researches, in which some of the sources of error in the earlier observations have been avoided, by remarkably successful experiments upon living animals, and by the application of improved methods for the analysis of animal fluids. The author, recognizing the importance of all these methods of study, has endeavored to give most extended application of physical laws to the mechanism of absorption.

While this work is primarily intended for the use of physiologists and physicians, and necessarily contains many technological terms, it may nevertheless be read with interest and profit by all intelligent individuals. Indeed, no where else, within anything like the same space, can so accurate and expansive a view of the present condition of physiological science, so far as it pertains to the human race, be obtained as in these volumes, provided the ones yet to come compare with those already issued, and comport with the high character of the writer, as we doubt not they will.

The Household of Sir Thomas More. By the author of "Mary Powell." New York: M. W. Dodd. For sale by Davis, Clarke & Co., 93 Wood street.

The little volume is of the class of writing of the biographical romance, which gave the Schonberg-Cotta Family such popularity. It purports to be a diary written by a daughter of Sir Thomas, in which the quaint style of language and thought of the times of 1535, are chronicled. The work glows with beautiful sketchy paragraphs, and the antique style, if anything, increases the interest of the reader in its perusal. The author exhibits her rare ability and charming style throughout its pages. The record of so good and brave man should have a multitude of readers. Dodd has brought out the volume in elegant style and at low price.

Jacques Bonneval; or the Days of the Dragonnades. By the author of "Mary Powell," "The Faire Gospeller," etc. New York: M. W. Dodd, publisher. Sold by Davis, Clarke & Co., 93 Wood street.

Perhaps no book of its size and class is entitled to so much praise as this one, because of its faithful portraiture of men and things. The character of the Roman Catholic Church is vividly presented in words of beauty and instruction. Its publication will do good, and it will doubtless find its way into many Sunday School libraries, because of its unexceptionable character. It ought to, and doubtless will, have a large circulation.

Dombey and Son. By Charles Dickens. Peoples' Edition. With illustrations by H. K. Browne. Pp. 996. Philadelphia: T. B. Peterson & Brothers, publishers. For sale by Henry Miner, Fifth street, Pittsburgh.

This enterprising publishing house have issued, and have for sale at the present time, twenty-three other editions of the complete works of Charles Dickens, besides, the "Peoples' Edition, Illustrated." It is a marvel how such a good sized, stout and well bound volume, of about one thousand pages, can be sold at the low price of $1,50. While the paper is thin, it is white; type large and clear, and leaded. The illustrations are life like, and add additional interest to its pages. Dombey and Son with some is pre-eminent among the works of Dickens. This, however, is a matter of taste. The leading characters of all his writings are pictured with such vivid faithfulness, that lends a charm to his works and in a measure accounts for their popularity. Honest Captain Cutter, the pure-loving Florence, the villainous and oily Carker, like the imperious Dombey, are drawn by a master's hand, and almost seem to be living objects. This edition will doubtless have a large sale.

The Early Years of His Royal Highness, The Prince Consort. Compiled under the direction of Her Majesty, the Queen, by Lieutenant-General, the Hon. C. Grey. New York: Harper & Brothers. Pittsburgh: Henry Miner, Fifth street.

Exalted as Queen Victoria has been regarded heretofore by many in this country, the perusal of this volume will tend to increase this feeling. The characteristics of the domestic life of herself and the Prince Consort, develop the deep rooted affection which existed in the hearts of this royal couple. Many no doubt question the motives for uncovering domestic life to the gaze of the public, and yet, delicate as it may appear, the act shows a purity of motive, and sincerity of purpose, that relieves her of all censure in making public what is usually a matter of family interest. The knowledge of their intense interest in each other, as was heretofore mere gossip, is no longer a matter of conjecture. Developments are made of their inner life, that give a beauty and charm to wedded joys, and such bliss rarely enjoyed, or exemplified by royal lovers.

The reason for giving the history to the public seem fair and beyond question, though it was originally intended for circulation exclusively among the relatives. It is understood that a considerable portion of it was written by the Queen herself. It gives a full history of the courtship and marriage of the Queen and Prince, and also of their married life to the time of the birth of the Princess Royal. Their love for each other commenced while they were quite young, and gradually increased, until Victoria was elevated to the throne, when she, by her position, took the initiative step to ask his hand and heart. The book will be much sought after, because of its intrinsic merits, as well as the interest usually felt in such works. Harpers have brought out the work in elegant style—royal style—at nearly one-third the price of the European edition.

Angelic Philosophy of the Divine Love and Wisdom. By Emanuel Swedenborg. From the original Latin, as edited by Dr. J. F. I. Tafel. Translated by R. Norman Foster. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott & Co., Publishers. For sale by Henry Miner, Fifth street.

No system of religion in these latter days has awakened so much interest as Swedenborgism, and with it a desire to understand its deep mysterious workings. There has always been a charm attached to it, of the ethereal cast, which has attracted multitudes to its standard, and no wonder, as it is composed of such elements as will find followers.

The translator has carefully retained the original ideas and thoughts of the distinguished author with a purity and completeness that must commend the work to the followers of Swedenborg in a special manner. The translator states in the preface that love, wisdom, advice—or will, understanding, and their exercise—or affection, thought and action—are trinal categories perpetually recurring in all sorts of relations throughout the work. The good and the true, the evil and the false, as terms, occur still more frequently. In their very simple terms and their relations, the chief difficulties of translation present themselves. The work itself evidently is designed to present the cardinal views of the system, as believed by the faithful followers of the eminent Swedenborg; and the careful perusal of it can hardly fail to convey the impression that it is a remarkable combination of philosophical reasoning, and a species of illumination and seership, which has rarely been produced in the field of letters. The work is divided into five parts, in which all the prominent doctrines of Swedenborgism are discussed clearly and with signal ability. The publishers, like the translator, have executed their part well, both as it regards type, paper and binding.

Home Life; A Journal. By Elizabeth M. Sewell, author of "Amy Herbert," "Laneton Parsonage," "A Glimpse of the World," etc. New York: D. Appleton & Company, Publishers. For sale by Davis, Clarke & Co., 93 Wood street, Pittsburgh.

Works of this kind are rare, combining instruction of an elevated tone, and written in a captivating style. This volume was written with a view to illustrate not only a few fundamental principles of education, but also the difficulties and disappointments attendant upon the endeavor to carry them out under ordinary circumstances and among ordinary people. The moral tone which runs through the book renders it worthy of being placed in the hands of young persons with safety. The lessons taught will do good. Her previous writings have won her some literary fame, and we think this volume will enhance it considerably. The book is nicely printed and tastily bound, worthy of this large establishment.

The Confession of Gerald Escourt. By Florence Marryat. Loring, Publisher: Boston.

This is one of Loring's Railway Novels, and is portable for travelers by rail or boat. The author has achieved some reputation, and is regarded with much favor for her great talent and power of expression; power to picture to the minds of her readers the conceptions which occupy her own.

Holmes' Patriotic Songs. By S. M. Holmes, Syracuse, N. Y.

It contains twenty-seven songs, some of them of the most radical cast.

An apt and literal illustration of the old adage that lazy people take the most pains, is recorded in an English paper. It was simply the explosion of a hot water bottle, but as it resulted in the death of one person, and the serious injury of several others, it was considered of sufficient importance to be reported by the engineers of the Manchester Boiler Association. The bottle was of earthenware and had been used, filled with hot water, to warm a sick bed. When it was cold, instead of taking the trouble to untie the waxed cord which bound the cork and refilling it with hot water, the attendants put it into the oven to be heated. In a short time the bottle exploded, the oven door was torn off and fragments of iron and pottery were thrown into the room with such violence as to wound three persons, one dying the next day. This incident not only carries a direct lesson in regard to hot water bottles, but showing a violent explosion from the slow and gradual accumulation of steam pressure, gives warning that household boilers, to be free from danger, should be fitted with either movable covers or safety valves, to relieve the imperceptible but excessive pressure so likely to accumulate.

CHOLERA! CHOLERA!

With the almost certain advent of Cholera, no thoughtful person will be unprepared for it. Secure what experience has demonstrated to be the most certain antidote—that which has cured once will cure again, and never purchase a new and untried article, when an OLD AND RELIABLE ARTICLE can be had. When the cholera visited us on two former occasions, it was found by experience that

FLEMING'S CHOLERA MIXTURE

Was the best, and superseded all others, therefore it stands to reason that, if you would have an article that you can depend on, you should purchase it to the exclusion of all others.

ARE YOU BILIOUS!

Multitudes of both sexes will answer this question in the affirmative; for, next to disorders of the stomach, liver complaints are perhaps the most prevalent of all internal diseases. Its usual symptoms are a yellowish tinge in the whites of the eyes, especially near the inner corners, an uneasy or slightly painful sensation in the right side, pain between the shoulder blades, sick headache, lassitude, mental dullness, lack of appetite and irregularity of the bowels. Whoever recognizes this diagnosis as applying to his own condition, may be quite certain that more bile exists in his blood and less passes through his bowels than is expedient for his health, and that his liver requires toning and regulating. One of the special uses of

is to meet just such exigencies as this. Its tonic principle rouses the liver from its torpor, and its aperient element gently relieves the intestinal canal of the accretions consequent upon an insufficient supply of nature's cathartic, the bile. Persons of bilious habit will find it the best safeguard against the attacks to which they are constitutionally predisposed, and should carefully avoid all the ordinary alcoholic stimulants.

CURE OF FISTULA.

Dr. Keyser: I write to thank you for your kindness and scientific management of my disease, for which I called to consult you some time in January last. You will remember that I had a complication of diseases which finally ended in a terrible fistula, which had been advised to "let alone" on account of a harassing cough, which it was feared might fasten on my lungs. I knew that the popular mode of treating diseases like mine was by a cutting operation, which, if successful at all, would naturally throw the disease upon the lungs or some other vital organ, on account of the suddenness of the cure and the immediate check to a discharge which I was constrained to believe was a salutary provision of Nature to get rid of some morbid condition in the system. I feel perfectly satisfied that your method of treatment, purifying to the system, and local applications to the fistulous part, must cure, if anything could, without cutting, which I find it did, and I am happy to report myself well in every particular, with sounder and better health than I have had for years. I would also add that the applications you made were almost painless, and have left me a new man, with all the energies and vigor of restored health.

Yours, gratefully, C——.

Dr. Keyser's consultation rooms are No. 120 Penn street, from 8 A. M. until 4 P. M.

GENTLEMEN—We ship you, to-day, by railroad, a safe of your make, for a few repairs. The safe went through the disastrous fire that occurred here on the 8th of March last, burning our store and warehouse, and we are glad to inform you that the papers taken out of the safe after the fire were not harmed in the least. We did not suppose any safe, especially so small a size, could possibly stand such a fire, and when we discovered the papers all safe and sound, we were agreeably disappointed. We will give you an order for a large size safe when we get into our new store. Truly yours,

The Labor Reform Convention—Nomination of Candidates.

The delegates elected on Saturday, pursuant to a call by the Labor Reform party of this county, met in Convention in the District Court room yesterday, for the purpose of nominating a County ticket.

The Convention was called to order, and temporarily organized by calling Mr. Wm. Matthews to the Chair, appointing W. C. Core, Vice President, Thomas A. Armstrong and David Lowry, Secretaries.

Mr. Matthews stated the object of the Convention, and requested the delegates to cut loose from old party ties, and place in nomination men who were free and untrammeled, and known to be friends of the Labor Reform.

On motion, a Committee on Credentials, consisting of Messrs. Lowry, Evans, Core, Morgan, Franger and Hellick, were appointed.

On motion, the following gentlemen were appointed a Committee on permanent organization:

Messrs. David Lowry, John D. Evans, B. A. McGinty, James Davis, Joseph Tatem, John Cregan, George Thompson, Joseph Chiverton, Thomas Hunter, Thomas Henderson, D. C. Crawford, and J. S. Hillman.

During the absence of the Committee on Organization, the Convention was addressed by Messrs. Krepps and Alexander. The remarks of Mr. Krepps were made up of a series of slang phrases, in which he displayed anything else but ability or talent. He concluded by saying that "both the old parties had placed in nomination a set of 'scabs,'" a remark that elicited immense applause from the delegates. Mr. Alexander's remarks were more pertinent to the question, and of a much more gentlemanly character.

At the conclusion of Mr. Alexander's remarks, Mr. Oxley inquired of the Chairman for what object the Convention had been called. He understood that it was for the purpose of nominating candidates, and not for speech making. The time for talking was past; it was time to act.

The Chairman stated that the gentleman must wait a few moments. Committees on Credentials and Organization had been appointed, and no business must be transacted until they were ready to report.

Mr. Oxley was opposed to "hatching" business in a committee. That the Permanent Organization should have been effected at the beginning.

The Chairman was "riled" at this remark, and said that the gentleman should have made his objection at the time the committee was appointed. It was too late now. As Chairman he would order the gentleman to take his seat. He had been appointed Chairman, and he was going to be Chairman.

Mr. Oxley "subsided."

George Baber, Esq., of the Advocate, was called upon to address the Convention during the absence of the Committee on Credentials. His remarks were brief but pointed, urging the necessity of unity of action and the selection of able men for the different offices, if the party desired to be successful.

Mr. Lowry, Chairman of the Committee on Credentials, submitted the report of the Committee, showing that sixty districts were represented. The report was adopted.

The Committee on Permanent Organization, through their Chairman, reported the following gentlemen as officers of the Convention, which was unanimously adopted:

PRESIDENT—E. A. Frethy, of Lawrenceville.
VICE PRESIDENT—Daniel Coyle, Oakland township.
SECRETARIES—Rinaldo L. King, Allegheny, David Lowry, Pittsburgh.

Mr. Frethy was then introduced by the temporary Chairman. He said the time for speech making had passed; that he would respectfully thank the Convention for the unexpected favor they had conferred upon him by selecting him to finish out their deliberations. He would endeavor to discharge the duties of the position to the best of his ability, and do all in his power to facilitate the nominations, to which the Convention was now ready to proceed.

On motion, a Committee on Resolutions, consisting of Messrs. R. A. McGinty, David Lowry, Rinaldo L. King, Wm. Marshall, Geo. Thompson, J. S. Hillman and Wm. Matthews, was appointed by the chair.

On motion to proceed to nominate candidates for the State Senate, the following names were presented for the action of the Convention: Prof. Andrew Burtt, William Matthews, J. W. Krepps and W. W. Alexander.

It was then moved to proceed to nominate candidates for Assembly.

Mr. Krepps said that the proceeding was out of order; that the proper method would be to proceed to ballot for State Senator.

A motion was made to proceed to an informal ballot, and that the two candidates receiving the highest number of votes be declared the contestants for the nomination.

Mr. Matthews took the floor and said that his name had been used as a candidate for the State Senate without his approbation or consent, and he respectfully declined being a candidate and positively refused to stand a ballot.

The President said that his name was before the Convention and it was a matter for the delegates to decide.

On motion Mr. Matthew's declination was accepted.

Messrs. Krepps and Alexander asked permission to withdraw their names in favor of Prof. Burtt, which the Convention granted.

Mr. Burtt was then declared the nominee of the Convention by acclamation.

The Convention then adjourned till one o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Convention re-assembled at one o'clock, and was called to order by the Chairman, who stated that nominations for Assembly were next in order.

The following names were presented to the Convention:

J. W. Krepps, Birmingham; James McKain, Mount Washington; Daniel Coyle, Oakland; W. W. Alexander, Thomas A. Armstrong, Allegheny; J. S. Hillman, Baldwin; Hugh Woods, Tarentum; Andrew Brown, Elizabeth; A. G. Thoburn, Birmingham; Robert Campbell, McClure; Alex Miller, Birmingham; W. F. Bradbury, McKeesport; M. L. Matthews, Allegheny; Augustus Steiner, Wilkinsburg.

Mr. John Flanigan said he objected to one man presented to the Convention. That the gentleman was opposed to the interests of the laboring classes and an "oppressor" of coal diggers. He thought the status of candidates should be known before the vote was taken.

It was moved to proceed to a vote and that the six gentlemen having the highest number of votes should be declared the nominees.

A motion to amend by requiring each candidate to have a majority of the votes cast.

Mr. Matthews said the amendment was not in order, as it destroyed the purpose of the original motion.

The Chair decided the amendment in order.

Mr. Matthews appealed from the decision of the Chair. A vote being taken on the appeal, the decision of the Chair was sustained.

A division was called for, and Mr. Matthews insisted upon the delegates taking their seats. Cole a delegate stated that there were not seats enough, and another suggested that those who had no seats might "squat."

Another motion was adopted to proceed to an informal ballot, in order to settle the difficulty they had got into, which was likely to retard the business and interfere with the harmony of the convention.

S. L. Pedar, of Wilkins township, stated that he had been instructed to support no man for nomination who was not a working man. He knew very few of the gentlemen whose names had been presented as candidates for Assembly, and could not tell whether they worked for a living or not. He thought they should have a word of the history of each candidate, so that they would know what kind of men they were voting for. (Applause.)

On motion it was resolved that the Secretary be requested to read over the list of names, so that the friends of the different candidates could have an opportunity to give their "record" to the Convention, and vouch for their soundness on the labor reform question.

The name of Messrs. Krepps and Coyle were read, but not a voice was raised in their behalf. Mr. M'Kain's name was next on the list, and when called it was evident that he had one friend (!) in the Convention who would vouch for him as an anti-labor man.

Mr. Price said that in 1859 Mr. McKain was engaged in the coal business, and that he had strenuously opposed the interests of working men; had opposed the placing of scales at his coal works. He had known him to turn away men who belonged to Trades Unions and hire "Black Sheep" to fill their places. After some further remarks in the same vein he stated that he had not been acquainted with Mr. McKain's antecedents since that time.

Another gentleman disagreed with Mr. Price, and said that Mr. McKain had been so kind to his workmen that he had broken up at the business.

It was evident that if the delegates were allowed to go into a discussion on the merits of the different candidates, a scene of confusion would be the only result.

Mr. Krepps, who appears to be a shrewd politician, and who evidently proved of considerable influence in the convention, saw the danger and used his influence to avert it. He said that this "reading up of character" of the different candidates could result in no good, and hoped it would be continued no further. The policy of the labor party was to seek friends, and to promote love and harmony in the ranks, instead of personal strife, hatred, and discord, which must naturally end in alienation. He moved that further inquiry into the "character" of the different candidates be indefinitely postponed. The motion was gladly accepted by the meeting.

On motion it was again resolved to go into an informal ballot.

Mr. Oxley inquired if this was an informal ballot.

Mr. Mathews said he wished to know whether a gentleman had a right to ask questions in this Convention who was not a member of it! (Cries of "He is a member.") That is all I want to know.

The Secretary announced that his credentials had been accepted.

Mr. Oxley replied that the gentleman (Mr. Mathews) was keen, and that he had nothing more to say.

The Convention then proceeded to an informal ballot by marking, with the following result:

J. W. Krepps	86	A. G. Thompson	8
David Coyle	23	Robt. Campbell	28
James McKain	16	Alex. Miller	5
W. W. Alexander	50	W. F. Bradbury	53
T. A. Armstrong	58	M. L. Matthews	41
J. S. Hillman	61	Augustus Stein	40
Hugh Woods	13	Joseph Hippsly	33
Andrew Brown	20

Mr. Matthews moved that the Committee on Resolutions be requested to report forthwith, which was agreed to.

R. A. McGinty, Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, then read the following

RESOLUTIONS:

WHEREAS, The industrial classes are the creators of the real greatness and prosperity of the country, and, at the same time, are the chief bearers of the burthens of government, fighting its battles in time of war, and sharing the largest proportion of the taxation in times of both peace and war; and

WHEREAS, The rights and interests of the industrial classes have been seriously and grossly neglected in both National and State legislation, which neglect has been practiced in the interest of monopolies and an oppressive monied aristocracy; and

WHEREAS, A vital necessity exists for a thorough reformation of the various abuses which for years past have characterized our State Legislature, in order that the rights and interests of the mechanic, the farmer, the artisan and the laborer, and also the honest capitalist, may no longer be subordinated to the schemes of corrupt politicians of the old political parties; and believing that experience has clearly taught us that the desired reformation cannot be entrusted to professional politicians of either of the said political parties, therefore,

Resolved, That the industrial classes of Allegheny county, without regard to former political opinions or associations, and speaking through their delegated representatives assembled in Convention, do declare:

1. That we hereby organize, permanently, the Labor Reform party of Allegheny county, in harmony with the cause of Labor Reform throughout the United States, and, that we will, as workingmen, support those, and those only, who will advocate the principles of Labor Reform, and use their influence in support of such laws as will secure to the laboring classes their just rights.

2. We declare that we will spare neither time, labor nor expense in the effort to abolish the present infamous eviction act, commonly known as the "Tioga" law, regarding it, as we do, as a blot upon the statute book of Pennsylvania.

3. We declare that the unlimited fields of iron and coal render the mining interests of Pennsylvania of the utmost importance, and deserving to be protected by legislative enactments; and inasmuch as our coal miners have been in many cases, defrauded of part of their earnings by the use of screens and unfair measures, a law should be speedily enacted to compel their employers to pay them for full quantity of coal of every variety dug by them, in proportion to its market value.

4. We declare that, inasmuch as the workingman depends upon his labor alone for the support of himself and family, and inasmuch as he contributes more directly than any others towards increasing the capital of his employer, his unpaid wages should, by law, be made a lien on the employer's property and thus become a preferred claim, so that the insolvency of his employer would not, as now, result in defrauding him of his hard earned and just dues.

5. We declare that, the present system of valuing property and occupations for the purposes of taxation, whereby the cheap homes and small incomes of the workingman are valued far higher in proportion to their real worth than those of the rich, (thereby throwing the burden of taxation chiefly on the poor,) is, in the opinion of this Convention, an outrage that should be speedily redressed by appropriate legislation, it being still further the opinion of this Convention that there is nothing upon which taxation should bear more lightly than upon the humble home and meagre income of the laboring man.

6. We declare that the flagrant violations of the ten hour law by the owners and lessees of Cotton and other factories in Allegheny county warrant us in demanding an immediate official investigation of the same; and in the opinion of this Convention, the spirit which animates employers in these violations of law is but the natural result of the teaching which places labor in the market only to regulate it by the rule of "supply and demand."

4. We declare that while the industrial classes, native and foreign born, in Allegheny county, have no objection to ordinary free immigration of laborers to the United States from any country on the globe, yet they do oppose and hereby emphatically protest against all organized purchased importations secured by capitalists, and their agents, for the purpose of over-stocking the labor market in any special locality, feeling, as the working men do, that such importations are hostile to the rights and interests of home labor, and lead inevitably to pauperism and crime; and, while the industrial classes of Allegheny county favor a judicious tariff on imported merchandise for the protection of home manufactures, they demand, also, a judicious tariff per capita upon all purchased importations of labor, in order to protect home industry, the said tariff to be paid into the treasury of the county or State by the capitalists themselves who import purchased foreign laborers.

8. We declare that the administration of the Government should be marked by the strictest economy, in order that present taxation may be diminished as rapidly as possible, and all additional burdens on the people averted.

9. We declare for equal taxation according to wealth, and no favored classes. Every citizen should be taxed on what he possesses, whether his possessions consist of lands, merchandise, houses, farms, factories, bonds or money on hand; and we declare also, that tariff duties should be reduced upon all articles of necessity, so that labor may be lightly taxed.

10. We declare that, having in view the odious tyranny of the Pennsylvania Railroad Monopoly, and regarding all monopolies as injurious to the major portion of the community, we are heartily in favor of the enactment of a free Railroad Law.

11. We declare that, as the present Homestead Law of Pennsylvania has become a "dead letter" on our statute books, by the compulsory signing away of the privileges intended to be guaranteed by it, we are in favor of a Legislative act whereby the rights of families may be secured in the benefits of what is known as the "three hundred dollar law."

The report was unanimously adopted.

Mr. Oxley moved that the six men having the highest number of votes be declared the nominees of the Convention, which was agreed to, and the following named gentlemen were declared duly nominated: J. W. Krepps, J. S. Hillman, T. A. Armstrong, W. T. Bradley, W. W. Alexander, Wm. S. Matthews.

The Chairman announced that he had received a dispatch from the Labor Convention in Cincinnati, stating that they had nominated Samuel F. Cary for Congress, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation Gen. Hays, the Republican candidate for Governor of Ohio.

On motion, Professor Burtt was invited to address the meeting, and was loudly called for.

Mr. Burtt took the stand and said that there was a practice among the old parties that the new one should avoid, and that was "to talk much and do little." He had done all in his power to prevent his nomination, because he thought the convention could receive a better man, one who could spend more time in the canvas, but the convention thought different. He was proud to see in this, the first Labor Convention, such an array of ability and talent. Not one single act, looking to the benefit of the laboring men, had been passed in the Pennsylvania Legislature. It was notorious that the Pennsylvania Railroad could and did rule the Legislature; that money would and did by it. The ticket would be in the field to-morrow and the question would be, "what support would it receive from the working men of Allegheny County." The old party leaders are already at work with whips in hand to drive you back into the ranks of the old parties. Will they do it? (cries of no, never.) We are now standing on a new platform, and we will support our candidates regardless of what their former political prejudices have been.

A man who was three-fourths Republican or Democrat, and one-fourth working man, was worth nothing to the labor party. That it was their duty to take care of themselves and let the old parties do the same. That the nominations in the old parties were made by political tricksters, and not the good people of the county. (Joe Evans wanted to know something about the two "rat" candidates for Senate.) He had nothing to say about the two men; he knew Mr. Barr to be a gentleman; he also knew Mr. Errett to be a very worthy gentleman. It was reported that these men had made it their business to reduce the wages of the laborers in their employ, and that was the best reason why they should not be voted for. If this thing was a "fizzle," the cause was lost at least for twenty years, but if it should succeed, the working classes would be much better six months hence than they were at present.

On motion, it was resolved to make nominations for all the different offices before proceeding to a ballot in order to facilitate the business, when the following nominations was made:

PROTHONOTARY—J. B. Jackson, David Lowry, Samuel Lambert, W. J. Dick and W. H. Hammet.

TREASURER—W. T. McBride, Capt. J. L. McKee and Thomas W. Wright.

COUNTY COMMISSIONER.—J. L. Evans, M. McGonigle, John F. Wolf, M. V. B. Salladie, James McCleary, William Sheargold and J. England.

JURY COMMISSIONER.—J. O'Handlin, B. F. Morgan, Patterson M. Pearson and Thomas Megraw.

CORONER.—Thomas Matthews, E. O. Williams, Thomas Carnahan, Louis Shriver and Lee Megraw.

DIRECTORS OF THE POOR.—James B. Stevens, Benjamin White and P. A. Rattigan.

On motion, it was resolved that the candidates having the highest number of votes should be declared the nominees.

The Convention then proceeded to mark for the various officers, with the following result:

The Pittsburgh Gazette

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
WEDNESDAY, September 11, 1867.

The New York stock quotations to-day, as received by Mr. P. R. Mertz, were as follows: Gold, 145⅜; Eighty-one bonds, 112; Five Twenties, 1862, 111⅜; Five Twenties, 1864 109¾; Five Twenties, 1865, 111¼; 5-20 Consols, 108¼; Seven Thirties, 107⅛; Ten Forties, 99⅜. Stocks—Erie Railroad, 71¾; Cleveland & Pittsburgh, 89¼; Chicago and Rock Island, 105; Chicago and Northwestern, 47; Chicago and Northwestern preferred, 71¾; Fort Wayne Railroad, 106⅛; Michigan Southern Railroad, 83⅜; New York Central, 109½; Reading, 104½; Western Union Telegraph Co., 44; Ohio and Mississippi Certificates, 28⅜. Mining shares—Corydon, 1,30; Gregory, 6,60; Quartz Hill, 1,65; Smith & Paramalee, 5,45; Quicksilver, 27⅜. Merchants Union Express Co., 19¼.

Gold opened at 144¼, and under heavy purchases for a rise advanced to 145⅜ bid. The speculative demand is on the increase, and 150 is now looked upon as the probable figure within a few days. Government bonds are steady, with no special demand.

The stock market is excited and much higher. New York Central has advanced since yesterday per cent. Hudson 9 in two days. Erie 2. Cleveland & Pittsburgh 1¾. North Western, common, 1⅜, Prefered, 1¼. Rock Island, 1¼. Fort Wayne, ⅜. Ohio and Mississippi Certificates, ¾. The old Express stocks have declined, and Merchants Union after being 22⅞ is quoted at 19 offered. This sudden rise is due mainly to the desire of covering short sales by bears, who are unable after the return of some prominent bull operators, to control the market, to the larger earnings of the trunk routes, and the advance in gold or depreciation of currency. Money, however, is stiffening up, and the advance in stocks will soon be checked by the higher rates of interest.

Mining shares have improved; also, some of the better class of oil stocks, such as Benneheff Run and United States.

—It is probable that the Secretary of the Treasury will go on with the funding as well as purchase of the second and third series of the seven-thirties without reference to their maturity. If the new five-twenties of 1865-7 should not be successfully introduced abroad, because they bear January and July coupons, in place of May and November, to which the English and Continental markets have been accustomed, and the preference should continue for the five-twenties of 1865 in the old form (now that the '62s are nearly exhausted on this side) there is ample authority under the funding act of March 3, 1865, to increase the May and November issue. At the present market rates the Treasury would make 1¼@1½ per cent. by this accommodation to foreign buyers, while facilitating the funding of the seven-thirties.

The accumulation of money in the New York market continues uninterrupted. The bank statement shows a large gain in deposits, but even these do not wholly represent the ease of money to the brokers in Wall street from private lenders, including a number of large houses connected with England and the Continent. The West is drawing considerable sums in national bank currency from New York, but the supply, thus far, has enabled the banks to meet the demand without entrenching materially upon their greenbacks. The exchange is now but slightly against New York at Chicago, &c., owing to the demand for drafts for railway and mercantile account.

PETROLEUM—THE PRODUCTION—NEW DEVELOPMENTS—STOCK, SHIPMENTS, CONSUMPTION AND DEMAND FOR THE PRESENT YEAR.

It has occurred to me that an approximation to the correct data, as to exact of the above important points, may be arrived at by closely examining and comparing the statistics we have of 1866 and 1867 to September 1st, adding such information as to present stock and developments in the producing regions, as seem most worthy of credit. A much disputed and difficult question to answer satisfactorily, is the production. I estimate the product of the Pennsylvania Oil Regions at this date to be not less than a daily average of 12,000 barrels. This production is based upon information obtained from two different persons, neither of them having any interest in the matter except to give me as accurate a statement as it was possible for them to obtain by close personal examination; also, from the following figures, which will demonstrate that allowing for the ordinary wastage, and evaporation incidental to the management of oil wells, 12,00 barrels is not too large an estimate of the daily product.

The stock on hand in the producing regions as taken by parties referred to about the middle of August last, was		600,000
The highest estimates of stocks in same locality, January 1st, 1867, was		300,000
Deduct this, shows an increase to September 1, 1867, of		300,000
Our exports to August 31, 1867, (nearly all refined) was	996,261
Home consumption for the eight months ending August 31, 1867, estimated at half the total consumption of 1866, amounts to	327,721
Total in refined	1,323,982
I allow for evaporation and leakage to wells, refineries, and wastage until on board vessel, a yield of 66⅔ gallons refined to 100 gallons crude—to reduce all to crude, we add	661,991
		1,985,973

Total production, estimating stocks outside oil regions, equal to this date of last year, (of which there is no doubt) or a daily average production—Sundays excluded, from January 1st to Sept. 1, 1867, of		10,937

There are about two hundred new wells in progress of development; these are mostly on territory thoroughly tested, one half of them will, in all probability, prove producing, and will make up for any falling off in old wells, and add one to two thousand barrels to present product. The shipments from the oil regions to August 31st this year have been larger than to same date in 1866, to all points except Pittsburgh, where they have fallen off, according to the "Pittsburgh Commercial," reports—64,520 barrels; this is owing to the low stage of water in the Allegheny river for the past sixty days. To Cleveland, the increase has been from 40 to 60 per cent. To Philadelphia, at least 20 per cent. To New York, to September 4th inst., as per the New York "Shipping List" of that date, the arrivals are in excess of same period in 1866, 107,175 barrels. Our stocks at the principal distributing points in this country will not vary materially from what I place them below. The stock in Pittsburgh I arrive at as follows: About the first of January last a very careful stock was taken; (in many cases refiners had just made up their accounts, and the figures were exact) the total of crude and refined reduced to crude was... 352,489

The receipts exclusive of Smith's Ferry and other minor points as per Pittsbugh Commercial, to August 31st, were	664,786
Total available stock held over and received to August 31st, 1867	1,017,275
Shipments to August 31st, counting all as refined (a portion of which was crude) amounts per railroad manifests to	385,631
For fear some shipments may have been overlooked, we add for any possible omissions	46,469
Giving a total shipment of	432,100
Allowing a yield of 72 per cent. shows a depletion of	600,000
Leaving a stock on hand Sept. 1st reduced to crude of	417,275
Stock in the Pennsylvania oil region	600,000
Stock in Cleveland as estimated September 1st reduced to crude	115,000

From the above, we can form an intelligent opinion as to stocks and production in this country. I add a few figures as to exports, stocks in some of the principal European distributing ports, home and foreign consumption, compiled from the New York and Philadelphia shipping lists, and from various foreign market reports. The Liverpool stock was furnished by a prominent commission house in in that city. The home consumption is taken from the books of the Interal Revenue Department. I believe they are as exact as it is possible to make them.

The exports to European and Mediterrandan ports compiled from the New York and Philadelphia shipping lists to August 24th show an excess over last year of		100,639

The total exports to the world in 1866 were about		1,675,000
The total exports to Europe in 1866 were about	1,250,000
The stock on hand Jan. 1, 1866	200,000	1,450,000
The stock on hand in Europe as reported by the New York Shipping List, Jan. 1, 1867, was		487,
Showing a consumption, or a removal for consumption of		963,000

The stock in port and afloat for the six principal distributing points in Europe, was as follows, at dates specified:

	bbls. In port.	bbls. Afloat.	bbls. Total.
London, August 17	58,300	22,000	80,300
Antwerp, August 15	90,100	46,900	137,000
Hamburg, August 14	60,900	21,000	81,900
Rotterdam, August 14	34,300	13,200	47,500
Bremen, August 14	100,600	87,400	188,000
Liverpool, August 2	42,000	......	42,260
	386,200	190,500	576,700

I notice rather a peculiar feature in the London market, that while the shipments to that port are not as large to date as in 1866 by 12,692 barrels, the stock, at same dates, has increased 22,949 barrels; this is taken from Arthur Brown & Co.'s circular, dated August 12th, showing we may possibly over-estimate the foreign consumptive demand. The total stock in all Europe at this date, as estimated by those who have the best means of judging accurately is claimed to be not less than 900,000 barrels, but I have no figures by which to verify this statement; European and home consumption and stocks meet the same.

January 1, 1867, the European stock, according to the New York Shipping List, was			487,000
Our exports to Aug. 31st, 1867			996,261
Present stock held in this country, say 1,410,275 bbls in crude equal to refined at 66⅔ per cent			940,183
The production for 104 days from Sept. 1st, 1867, to Jan. 1st, 1868, (that we may err on the safe side) we call 10,000 bbls per day equal 1,040,000; reduced to refined at 66⅔ per cent., yield is			693,334
Showing a total stock in refined for European and home consumption for 1867, of			3,116,778
The European consumption for 1866, as before stated, was	963,000
The home consumption, as taken from our Internal Revenue books for the year 1866, was	655,443
Of which there has been already consumed during the past 8 months at least one-half this amount	327,721	327,722	1,290,722
Leaving a surplus of refined in this country and Europe Jan. 1st, 1868, of			1,826,056

This is basing consumption of 1867 on that of 1866. I think this surplus will be found sufficient for any increase in consumption abroad and at home, and leave ample stocks for speculators, manufacturers and the trade. I close my estimates with a statement showing the "expeditions," or removals for consumption, from the six European ports referred to:

Expeditions from Antwerp, Jan. 1st to June 30th, 1867, total	129,783
Average weekly		4,992
Expeditions from Bremen, Jan. 1st to June 30th, 1867, total	48,892
Average weekly		1,880
Expeditions from Hamburg, Jan. 1st to June 30th, 1867, total	27,170
Average weekly		1,045
I have not the exact date for "expeditions" from London, Liverpool and Rotterdam, but they probably were not over one-half the three ports above say		3,958
Showing an average weekly removal for consumption from the six, of		11,875
The stocks, as heretofore stated, in the same ports, will supply a weekly demand for the 18 weeks, from Aug. 15, 1867, to Jan. 1st, 1868, of		32,039
Or from Aug. 15, 1867, to April 1, 1868, 32 weeks, of		18,022

Equal to increase in consumption, to July 1, 1868, of over 150 per cent.; or for the thirty-two weeks to April 1, 1868, of over 50 per cent. Add to present stock the shipments that will be made from this out, and there need be no fear of abundant stocks for speculators, and the trade, generally, to carry. After a careful survey of the whole business, I believe the prospects of our ability to continue to supply the world with light are promising. We are promised the opening of the Allegheny Valley Railroad to Oil City, on or before the 1st of November next. This Corporation have 200 bulk cars, tanks, pumps, &c., contracted for, to be finished at same date, and promise, with the opening, a bulk line of 4000 barrels daily capacity. This will give our Pittsburgh refineries a constant supply of crude, regardless of low river or ice. With plenty of crude at low prices, the American refiners can supply the markets of the world.

CARBON.

* Many will dispute my estimate of stocks in Pittsburgh, and in the Oil Regions. Of the latter I am confident my figures are correct—any reduction claimed in Pittsburgh will not materially reduce the surplus.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
WEDNESDAY, September 11, 1866.

CRUDE—The market was more active to-day, under the influence of an advance at Antwerp, and, as will be seen by the report of sales, buyers took hold pretty freely, the operations, in the aggregate, reaching over nine thousand barrels. There is no improvement in prices, however, though holders instead of being obliged to make concessions, as was generally expected from the aspect of matters on Tuesday, succeeded in selling without much difficulty, at prices prevailing on Monday, and the sales of spot oil were unusully large—larger than for some days past. The reported operations were as follows:

1000 bbls, on spot, at	12½c
4000 " "	12½c
1000 " "	12½c
2000 " Until Dec. 1st, seller	13c
1000 " March and April, seller	13½c
50 " Smith's Ferry"—spot	13c

REFINED—The market for bonded oil was also fairly active to-day, the sales reaching eleven thousand barrels, in the aggregate, though prices have undergone no quotable change. Indeed, in the morning, the market was a little excited, but in the afternoon, in the absence of advices from Antwerp, a kind of lull seemed to prevail, and neither "bulls" nor "bears" seemed inclined to do anything. The market was much better than many had been led to suppose on Tuesday, when things looked a little "blue," and while, as we have already intimated, no advance was established, there was a pretty good demand at former prices. The reported sales were as follows:

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
WEDNESDAY, September 11, 1867.

The general markets are firm, though the volume of business in the aggregate, is light, as the demand is still restricted mainly to supplying immediate wants of the retail trade. That there will be a good fall business, however, is generally expected, and our merchants are making there preparations accordingly. The advance in gold is stiffening up Sugars and Coffee, and an advance in these articles seems almost inevitable.

GROCERIES—There seems to be an improvement in the grocery business, and while the market is more active and considerably firmer, prices are without quotable change. Coffee is quoted at 23 to 26c for fair to good; and 26½@27c for prime to choice. Sugars are in good demand and firm at 14½c for choice Porto Rico; 13½c for good; and 12½@13 for Cuba. Refined Sugars are quoted at 17¼@17¾ for hard, and 16@16½c for soft. Rangoon Rice 10@10½c—no Carolina in market. Porto Rico Molasses, 80c—no New Orleans Molasses or Sugars in this market. Concentrated Lye, $8,50 per case. Shot, $3,25 per bag.

GRAIN—Wheat is firm and in demand, and prime Penna and Ohio Red would sell readily at $2,25. Rye is in fair demand with sales on track at $1,15, and in store at $1,20. Oats scarce and tending upward; sale of 1 car on track, at 55c—small sales at 58@60c. Corn is scarce and firm; prime Yellow may be quoted at $1,14@1,15. Barley is unchanged—$1,10 @1,25 for good to prime Spring.

FLOUR—There is a slight improvement to note in the demand, and the market is firm with an upward tendency. We continue to quote at $10@10,50 for Spring Wheat; $11,00@11,50 for Winter Wheat; and $13@14 for fancy brands. Sale of 100 bbls "Ford" to the trade, at $9,60. Rye Flour is quoted at $7,75@8.

PROVISIONS—The Bacon market is considerably excited, and prices are still tending unward. We now quote at 15@15¼ for Shoulders; 17@ for Ribbed Sides; and 22@23 for Sugar Cured Hams. Lard has advance to 13¾@14c; and Mess Pork is held firmly at $

EGGS—Prime fresh packed Eggs are scarce and in demand, and we now quote the market firm at 20c.

BUTTER—Prime fresh Butter continues to sell without much difficulty at 24@25c, while common packed does not seem to be wanted at any price.

GREEN APPLES—Continue very dull, with a good supply but unchanged at $2@3 per bbl.

SEEDS—Flaxseed is selling at $2,35@2,40, and Timothy Seed at $2,50@2,75. No demand for Cloverseed.

New York Produce Market.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Cotton heavy and fully ½c lower; sales of 1,000 bales at 23½c for Middling Uplands. O., and $10@10,50 for New St. Louis; California firm; sales 8,000 sacks and bbls at $11@13,75. Sales of 200 sacks Rye Flour $6@7,75. Whisky quiet and steady; sales of 100 bbls Western at 36½c bonded. Wheat—receipts, 21,957 bush—3@5c better; there is a good export, speculative and home trade demand; sales of 126,000 bush at $2,20@2,23 for No. 2 Chicago Spring to arrive, $2,25 for No. 1 do. to arrive, $2,18½ for No. 3 do., $2,44 for Winter Red Western, $2,45 for Amber Southern, $2,50 for Amber State and Michigan; $2,50@2,65 for White California, $2,44 for Amber Canada bonded. MEDICAL.

CONSUMPTION!

It would take a man a lifetime to read the treatises that have been written upon this important subject, and if a sick man were to attempt it he would make himself worse by the reading, and die before he got half through. The symptoms of the disease are, hacking cough, expectoration of matter or pus, pain in one or both lungs, chilliness, burning in the palms of the hands and soles of the feet, exhausting day or night sweats, hectic fever, wasting of flesh or marasmus, sometimes expectoration of blood. These are the usual outward symptoms, apparent not only to the observing physician, but to the patient's friends. There are, however, more important symptoms than these, which are only made manifest by auscultation and percussion, terms which mean, in a medical sense, thumping and listening and they are employed outwardly in order to ascertain what is going on inside of the cavity of the chest. The signs of symptoms elicited in this way are almost surely demonstrate the true and exact condition of the respiratory organs. A perfect auscultator can not fail in ascertaining whether the Lungs are acting naturally or not. Hence it is the best method of examining the lungs. Their actual condition once discovered, the appropriate treatment is more rapidly arrived at, and every diseased part more completely under the influence of appropriate remedies. We have long been of the opinion that consumption or decay, or wasting of the bodily strength, was dependent on a depraved state of the blood, which carries, in its course, tuberculous matter, and deposits it in the lungs, or elsewhere in the body, just as calculi or stone is deposited in the bladder, a small particle of which attracts other particles, until it becomes of such offense to the natural functions as to bring on inflammatory action, which action, if it could, would carry it out of the system, and which could have been easily done in the beginning of such disease. DR. KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP is a complete and perfect cure in the forming stage of lung disease. It acts on the very principle we have stated above, by enabling the securing or carrying off organs to do a double share of work. Waste and repair are easily comprehended if the worn out material be carried off, and renewing material a proper character, the must be health and ease, the contrary of sickness and dis-ease. In many cases of consumption which have become settled, Dr. Keyser's Pectoral Syrup fails to cure, although it will do good in nearly all. He prepares a medicine called LUNG CURE or PULMONARY RESTORATIVE, which is a great tonic, and strengthens and restores the parts to be renewed, while it dissolves and carries out from the body those particles of worn out or extraneous matter, which only tend to clog or destroy it, by hindering the renewing material being deposited in proper place.

PULMONARY CONSUMPTION, RESULTING FROM PLEURISY, CURED.

Statement of George Ford, carpenter, of No. 16 Sampson street, Allegheny City:

I took a violent attack of pleurisy, in May, 1866, which left me with a cough lasting all summer, wearing away my strength and gradually undermining my health. During this attack pleurisy I had several physicians of the highest reputation in the city. After I had partially recovered from the pleurisy, I was advised to go into the country, which I did, and when there a called in a doctor, who told me my left lung was affected, and that if something were not done soon I would die of CONSUMPTION. I lingered on from this time until about the middle of June, my cough and lung disease gradually growing worse, and I weaker every day, and almost despairing of ever getting well. In this state of despondency, and knowing the general belief of the incurability of Consumption, and having heard of cures made by DR. KEYSER, and seeing his advertisement in the newspapers, I was induced in October last to call on the Doctor at his office, 120 Penn street, and had him examine my lungs with his "LUNG SOUND." He told me the upper lobe of my left lung was very much diseased, but he thought with great care and the perseverance in the use of his medicine, I would get well. At the time I called on Dr. Keyser my pulse was over one hundred and thirty beats in a minute, and I was generally prostrated, and had to cough night and day. I commenced the Doctor's treatment in October, with a feeble, broken constitution, and continued it faithfully until the present time. The Doctor's medicines helped me from the very start, and I could gradually feel myself getting stronger, and my cough and expectoration lessening. I have gained greatly in flesh, and consider myself well; all the rattling of my lung has ceased, and my general health is in every way good. All my relatives and friends know of the advanced stage of my disease and my extraordinary recovery. One of the medicines given me by Dr. Keyser was a medicine called LUNG CURE, which I took in connection with the other treatment.

GEORGE FORD

PITTSBURGH, March 27, 1867.

ANOTHER CURE OF CONSUMPTION.

STATEMENT OF JOHN G. WIGHAM, OF TURTLE CREEK, ALLEGHENY COUNTY.

I was discharged from the United States army January, 1866, on account of a wound in the head, from a shell, and a disease which the army physicians pronounced CONSUMPTION. I had a terrible cough and fell away in strength and flesh and was unable to do anything. Shortly after my return from the army, I made application to a physician of my neighborhood and, afterwards, to another in Pittsburgh of high reputation, whose remedies I used faithfully for five months, without any benefit whatever, but rather grew worse, and wasted in flesh and strength every day. In August, 1866, my mother took me to DOCTOR KEYSER, of 120 Penn street, whose skill in such cases like mine had been highly spoken of and put myself under his treatment. The Doctor examined my lungs very carefully with his LUNG SOUND, and told me that my left lung was badly diseased at the upper part, but if I was careful he thought he could cure me by following his directions closely, which I did from that day to this. I gradually improved under Dr. Keyser's medicines from the first week I commenced to take them, and my general health has improved, and my chest, where it was sunken away, and where it pained me, has become full and strong and free from pain. I can now do a full day's work, and take great pleasure in giving my testimony in favor of Dr. Keyser's treatment and medicines.

JOHN G. WIGHAM,
Turtle Creek.

PITTSBURGH, April 11th, 1867.

A case of five years' standing cured by DR. KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP:

DR. KEYSER:—My wife has been afflicted with a cough and difficulty of breathing for five or six years, which, for several years back, had gradually increased in violence. The complaint has been hereditary, and she had been treated by several physicians without any relief. In this state of her case I procured some of your PECTORAL COUGH SYRUP. I bought the first time a fifty cent bottle, which relieved her very much; I then called and got a dollar bottle, which cured her entirely, and she has now no trace of the former disease, except weakness. I would also state that I used the medicine my self to a cold and cough. The medicine cured me by taking one dose. I express my entire satisfaction with the medicine, and you are at liberty to publish this if you desire to do so.

WM. WILSON,
Alderman, Fifth Ward.

Our son, JAMES PAINTER, some three years of age was afflicted with consumption of the lungs, for which he was discharged from the army. He was examined by four army physicians, who all agreed that he must die with the disease. We brought him to Dr. KEYSER, 140 Wood street, (now 120 Penn street,) who, after sounding his lungs, commenced to treat him, and cured him sound and well. He is now well and has been so for the past three years. Others afflicted in like manner can likewise be cured.
